STATINTL

Dear [REDACTED]

It gives me great pleasure to extend an invitation to you to be a guest at the University of Minnesota to participate in our Twin City Industrial Conference to be conducted in Minneapolis at the Sheraton-Ritz Hotel on 27 April 1967. I know that Mr. Wally Halstead has corresponded with you on the details of the conference, but, at the risk of redundancy, allow me to review the same. Registration will be at 9:00 A.M. and the conference will begin at 9:30 A.M. You will go on at approximately 9:30 following a few introductory remarks and your introduction.

The invitations to the conferees announce your subject as "An Objective Analysis of the World Situation". A review of present world conditions, an analysis of the cultural, economical, ideological, political, educational and other significant aspects of life in countries and areas of the world and the effects of such conditions on the United States foreign and domestic policies; a summary of world conditions which contribute to increasing the hazards to world peace.

We expect to reimburse you for your travel expenses incurred by virtue of your participation in the conference. Mr. Kay Humphrey of this office will contact you personally in this regard after your arrival. Reservations will be secured for you at the Sheraton-Ritz and I understand arrangements for your transportation will be made by Mr. Halstead. If possible it would be helpful if you could furnish the airline flight number and expected time of arrival.

We are looking forward to your participation with a great deal of pleasure and anticipation. Please advise us if you have questions or if we can be of assistance in any way whatsoever.

Sincerely,

Robert J. Elliott
Director
